

200,000 t/a Paper Production Line of Zhenjiang Yongtai Group Put into Production

On November 5, 2011, the 200,000 t/a paper production line of Zhejiang Yongtai Group (Dongheng) was put into production after final commissioning test of the quality control system (QCS). The basis weight, thickness, and other quality parameters of the paper produced all met the designed requirement, marking a successful beginning of the normal production.

With investment from Zhejiang Yongtai Group, the project was one of the most advanced paper production lines in Fuyang region. It has an annual production capacity of 200,000 tons. The width of the paper machine is 4.3 meters and its speed can reach 300 m/min.

The project construction was approved by National Development & Reform Commission in 2007. It was a key project in Zhejiang province and the construction was started in November, 2009. In April 2011, the infrastructure construction was completed and equipment installation began. The paper machine started to produce paper successfully in August 2011, and was put into commercial production in November 2011.

Zhejiang Yongtai Paper Group Co., Ltd. is a large scale paper enterprise concentrating mainly in papermaking but also engaging in other areas such as power generation, heat supply, trading, and chemical materials. It produces 200,000 tons of coated white board and specialty papers per year and has an annual industrial output value of RMB 1 billion.
